Previously the cherished domain of Sir Charles Williams, a renowned figure in the equestrian world, Bromefield has been celebrated for its distinguished pedigree as a stud farm. Bromefield Great House stands as a testament to elegance and grandeur, set amidst 50 acres of secluded land, offering exceptional privacy and security. The estate is graced with paddocks, an array of mature trees, and a tranquil pond, creating a picturesque approach via a drive adorned with Foxtail Palms and Frangipani trees. The meticulously renovated house, constructed in 1664, spans 9,352 sq. ft. of living space, featuring four bedrooms and three bathrooms on the first floor, all adorned with traditional sash windows, hoods, and shutters. The ground floor boasts retained features, high ceilings, and wooden floors, enhancing the property's historical charm. In addition to the main residence, the estate offers a guest bedroom suite, a one-bedroom guest cottage, and a two-bedroom Coach House, cumulatively providing eight bedrooms and seven bathrooms. A large barn, recently serving as a stable, presents development opportunities alongside numerous outbuildings. To the south, accessed via a separate driveway, lie three houses arranged around their own swimming pool, currently rented on a long-term basis, two featuring three bedrooms and three bathrooms, and one with four bedrooms and four bathrooms, adding to the estate's allure and potential. Bromefield Great Estate represents a unique opportunity to acquire a remarkable piece of Barbados' heritage, offering an impressive blend of privacy, security, and easy access to the West Coast's luxurious amenities.
